

PRIVACY POLICY

Seven Seas is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected. Any information you provide to us through this website will only be used in accordance with this privacy statement. We will never share your details with anyone else. We are committed to ensuring that your information is secure and to offer the best online experience. In order to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure we have put in place suitable procedures to safeguard the information we collect online. Payments made using our Site are made through our payment solutions providers. You will be providing credit or debit card information direct to our providers who process payment details further.

It is possible to browse our site without submitting any personal information at all. However, you may choose to request products or services from our website such as request a consultation or quote by asking us to contact you in order to do so we will collect your name and contact information. We can only send you Seven Seas updates about our products, services and events with your consent. If you have provided your consent, you can withdraw it at any time (see "Unsubscribe from Seven Seas updates" below). If you have consented, we will send you Seven Seas updates through the preferred communication method you selected (e.g. by e-mail and post).

If you have registered to receive Seven Seas updates relating to our products, services and events, and you no longer wish to receive these, you can request that we amend your preferences.

You can do that either as indicated in the particular communication, e.g. by using the unsubscribe link which is included on all email updates, or by contacting Seven Seas. If you opt out of receiving Seven Seas updates relating to our products, services and events, we may still send you non-marketing communications such as emails about your account or purchases.

In addition to the information that you choose to submit, our systems are set up to gather certain anonymous data to help us better understand how our site is being used and how we can improve it through the use of 'cookies' - see below.

USE OF COOKIES

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site. By using our website you agree that Seven Seas can place these types of cookies on your device. Most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings.

To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit: www.allaboutcookies.org

Seven Seas use Google Adwords and SEO code to see which pages helped generate contact form submissions allowing better use of paid search campaigns.

Seven Seas also use remarketing codes to log when visitors view specific pages to provide targeted ads in the future.

To opt out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites visit: <http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site. By using our website you agree that Seven Seas can place these types of cookies on your device. Most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings.

To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit: www.allaboutcookies.org

Seven Seas use Google Adwords and SEO code to see which pages helped generate contact form submissions allowing better use of paid search campaigns.

Seven Seas also use remarketing codes to log when visitors view specific pages to provide targeted ads in the future.

To opt out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites visit: <http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>